My name is James Teague, I am a graduate of the University of Soldotna, where I specialized in U.S. labor law and business administration. Currently, I serve as the CEO of International Labor Relations, a division of Sparta Solutions. In this role, I focus on delivering comprehensive labor and employment legal representation and consulting services across the United States and internationally.

Additionally, I hold the position of President at KSO Worldwide in the United States and its subsidiary, KSO Global Slovakia. KSO is a for-profit corporation dedicated to supporting the U.S. federal government globally. Our team comprises former U.S. military generals, high-ranking former government officials, and retired political figures. We provide critical international intelligence that informs decision-making processes in Washington, D.C.
